ETERNAL UNREST GROWS

Outbreak in Germany, Sweden and Spain Feared on May Day. The Socialist Holiday. Germany. Prevent All Information Getting Out.

By Associated Press.

The fourth day of the terrific struggle on the Western front in France has passed with both sides still striving vainly for a decision. The Germans have resorted to the terribly costly tactics of massed attacks and have apparently succeeded in checking the British advance. This partial success has been won, according to spectators of the titanic conflict, at a staggering toll of human life.

It would seem as if the revolutionary war which was ominously swelling through Europe prior to the inception of the great battle were drowned in the thousands of the battlefield but indications are not lacking that momentous events are about to occur behind the fighting line. The summary adjournment of the Reichstag when its sittings had barely opened is given added significance by hints in the German press that the strike with renewed violence on May Day, the great international Socialist holiday. A nation-wide labor demonstration in Sweden is also planned for that day and may have its counterpart in Spain.

No news of any importance has come from Austria in several days, a fact which has given fresh vigor to the ever recurrent reports of intentions or efforts on the part of the dual monarchy to seek a separate peace. No confirmation of the reports is available but there is more definite tidings of the status of affairs in Turkey, the third member of Germany's imperial triumvirate.

Returning travelers tell appalling stories of the devastation wrought by disease and starvation in the Ottoman empire. They also repeat the oft-told story that the Turkish people are sick at heart over the war and its attendant miseries but are kept in subjection by the iron hand of Enver Bey and his German colleagues.

A striking example of the rigidity of the German censorship is afforded by the news that no German newspaper is allowed to leave the empire without examination by the censor.

Barbed wires charged with electricity have been erected along the Swiss frontier and every possible precaution has been taken to prevent news of what is happening in Germany from reaching the rest of the world.

GERMAN BREVETS TAKE PLACE OF PARAPETS.

LONDON, April 26.—Telegraphing today from British headquarters in France Reuters' correspondent says: "The Germans are still hurrying up fresh reserves to press their counter attacks. They are fighting a great delaying battle although not now standing upon any well prepared system of defenses and can only hope to check our advance by using up great masses of troops whose losses have taken the place of parapets."

"This policy must result in greatly accelerating the process of exhaustion and if continued long the situation will resolve itself into the simple problem of which side can longest maintain the deadly pace."

"Prisoners declare the German army is now being drained at a rate which brings collapse within a measurable distance."

AUSTRIAN PARLIAMENT

"Russians do not attack. We also will not attack."

GREAT CHEERS FOR MISSION

Enthusiastic Greeting Given Distinguished Visitors in Washington.

By Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, April 26.—The French commission began today with a round of official calls. The first was to the State, War and Navy Department.

Former Premier Viviani, head of the mission, Marshal Joffre, Admiral Chocheprat, and Viscount de Chambric, called first at Secretary Lansing's office. Former Secretary of State Elihu Root was conferring with Mr. Lansing at the time. The clerks of the great building lined the halls and gave the Frenchmen a reception of almost continuous cheers and hand-clapping.

After spending a few minutes with Secretary Lansing, Mr. Viviani, Marshal Joffre and Admiral Chocheprat went over to the White House to be formally received by President Wilson. As the French party left the building, the cheering was acknowledged by all observers to be the most enthusiastic and loud ever given in the city.

While at the White House, Mr. Viviani presented to President Wilson a letter from President Poincaré.

ELIHU ROOT TO HEAD COMMISSION TO RUSSIA.

WASHINGTON, April 26.—Elihu Root, former secretary of state, after conferences early today with President Wilson and Secretary Lansing formally accepted the chairmanship of the American Commission to Russia.

Mr. Root spent an hour with the President at the White House discussing the Russian situation. The President outlined fully what he desired to accomplish.

The commission will be composed of three or four principal members and a staff of secretaries and assistants. It is expected to leave for Russia in a few days.

The needs of Russia as outlined to President Wilson are for political, financial, transportation, and commercial advice and assistance.

Mr. Balfour expressed himself today as tremendously pleased with the sympathetic understanding and the co-operation of the American government.

A SLIGHT FIRE.

Fireman Called to Extinguish Flames Across Street From Station.

Fire at the boarding house of Mrs. Sarah F. Ramsey on West Crawford avenue, West Side, at about 3:30 yesterday afternoon spread to the residence of H. L. Florio causing about $100 damage. The fire burned between the wall and communicated to a bathroom, a clothes closet and bedroom of the Florio home.

The fire station is just across the street and the firemen were promptly on the spot, extinguishing the blaze with chemicals.

Frost Tonight.

Frost for tonight is predicted by the Weather Man in his noon forecast. Whether it will be heavy enough to injure the fruit trees now in blossom is a question, and to many, an anxious one.

Dr. Junk Commissioned.

Dr. J. M. Junk this morning received his commission as first lieutenant in the Medical Reserve.

WANDERING CHICKENS DO GREAT HARM TO GARDENS,
DECLARES CORRESPONDENT

"Are you really patriotic or are you a miserable four fluster?" asks a correspondent of The Courier in requesting that this paper give publicity to what the correspondent believes to be one of the greatest hindrances to the gardening movement. He goes on to say:

"Many a person would plant a garden if it were not for their neighbors. They do not expect their neighbors to steal their garden stuff. But they know that their neighbors keep chickens and don't keep them at large and destroy his neighbors' gardens. Has no patriot in his make-up, no matter if he does go about with the Stars and Stripes pinned on his coat, talk loudly of conscientiousness and the like, and keep his house with a flag as big as a barn door. He is too blind to see anything but himself and what he talks about his country is the quintessence of bunk."

"This country depends upon every man, woman and child, and it is not too late for these chicken raisers to enroll themselves in the peace army."

CASPARIS MAKES FIRST SHIPMENT

Seven Cars of Stone Sent Out by Big Quarry Company Near Here.

The first shipment of stone has been made from the Casparis quarry, in Connellsville township. Seven cars constituted the first shipment. The capacity of the plant, it is expected, will be worked up anywhere from one to 35 cars per day. At present, the men are working through dirt, running into stone only occasionally.

The Casparis quarry is only one of the nine or 10 plants of the Casparis Stone Company, the others being located in the states of Ohio and Indiana. Headquarters of the company are at Columbus, Ohio.

Operations at the Connellsville township quarry were begun late last summer, and when winter set in, attempts to take the stone from the ground ceased, and the labor was concentrated on placing the apparatus and getting things in readiness for work.

About 60 men are now employed at Casparis. R. H. Koenig, superintendent of the plant, Joseph E. Butternore was at Casparis yesterday looking after the interests of the Baltimore & Ohio railroad, over which shipments will be made.

ONION SETS SCARCE

Big Demand Soon Exhausts Supply of Grocers.

Unless a new supply is received soon, persons who intended planting green onions in their back yard gardens will be disappointed, the supply being almost exhausted. Many people who never before planted their back yards bought onion sets and the grocers' supply did not last long.

One West Side man who dug up a space in his garden for onions was not able to secure any in the city yesterday. He purchased a package of onion seeds, which he says were also hard to find, and will plant these.

A quart of onion sets, just about a pound, sold for 25 cents. If not planted too close, a quart will fill a space about six by 15 feet, and allow room for cultivation.

BREAD ADVANCES.

Large Loaves to Cost 12 Cents Instead of 10 Cents Tomorrow.

A. J. Templeton will advance the price of bread from 10 to 12 cents, a large loaf tomorrow. On the 26th, when flour rose from $8 to $11.50, Mr. Templeton raised prices. But later he called the advance. Now flour is at $15 a barrel and yeast costs 11 cents a pound.

Since flour began to advance many families have stopped baking bread, buying their entire supply. This necessitates a larger output by the bakers. One firm in the city makes 2,700 loaves every day and has few left over.

Other bakers will probably announce a similar advance, it is said.

NEW YORK, April 26.—The price of bread will go up here Monday. The Ward Baking company, one of the largest manufacturers, today announced that the 10 cent loaf would be reduced two ounces in weight.

REMARKABLE HIT.

Fine Shot That Destroyed Submarine, Says Sailors Visiting Here.

Harry Conley, visited his aunt, Mrs. Joseph Ring at her home in Cedar avenue here yesterday, leaving Connellsville this morning for Washington, D. C. He is a navy man, having spent four years in his country's service.

When told of the reports of the destruction of a U-boat by naval gunners on the Mongolia, Mr. Conley said that a clean hit at 1,000 yards was considered a remarkably good shot.

FIREMEN UNFURL FINE SILK FLAG

South Connellsville Emblem To Be Displayed in Glass Case at School Building.

A flag raising was held at the high school building in South Connellsville last evening under the auspices of the South Connellsville volunteer Fire Department. An elaborate patriotic program was carried out.

Professor J. C. Beahm acted as master of ceremonies. A selection by an orchestra composed of Henry and F. A. Gattone, Gerald Evans and Paul Pickard opened the program. Hazel Matthews gave a reading and Blat Youngkin gave a talk on the "History of the American Flag." Recitation by Miss Esther Tannehill, "The American Flag" and a solo by Miss Christine Davis followed. Lester Condit told how "The Star Spangled Banner" came to be written and Miss Margaret Schoering sang the national anthem.

Two of the firemen, A. N. White and B. R. Helms, then unfurled a silk flag, measuring 5x8, in a glass case, which had been placed in the hall of the school. The ceremonies closed with the singing of "America" by the entire assembly.

FRANCE DAY OBSERVED

Today is France Day throughout Pennsylvania, proclaimed by the Governor in honor of the first landing of Lafayette in this country. It was celebrated in a small way here.

The only French flag which has been flown in the downtown district is at the plant of the Connellsville Steam Laundry Company, on Baldwin avenue. Here the tri-color waves immediately beneath the Stars and Stripes. In the residential sections several more banners of this country's ally have been raised, generally by people of French birth or descent.

French flags cannot be bought in Connellsville. The laundry company made its own banner for the occasion.

At the high school chapel exercises this morning, the national hymn of France, "The Marseillaise," was sung.

WAR AND GARDENING NOT EXPECTED TO AFFECT THE SUMMER RESORT ACTIVITIES

Indications point to a big season at the summer resorts in this section although not many definite preparations have been made as yet. Whether the war and increased gardening and farming will have the effect of cutting down the camping parties remains to be seen.

C. F. Hood, of the Fred and Creek Valley railroad, stated today that the indications now were for a better season than ever before. The Pittsburg camping club all have their own properties in the valley and it is expected that there will be thousands of visitors there this year.

Chippole will take a new lease on life this year. County Commissioner Logan Rish is negotiating for the Chippole hotel and he plans to rejuvenate it and make the immediate vicinity even more attractive for excursionists. The Chippole House has

MCLELLANDTOWN
BASKETBALL TEAM
JOINS COMPANY D

Six Recruits Accepted by Local National Guard Company Last Night.

ROLL NOW NUMBERS 105

Release of About 20 Men With Dependents Will Necessitate Further Enlisting to Reach Peace Strength of 100; Call to Colors Expected Soon.

Six recruits were received into Company D, Tenth Pennsylvania Infantry, one being held over at the state armory here last night. Six of them were members of the McClellandtown basketball team, while the seventh was from Connellsville. All passed physical examinations given by Major R. S. McKee. The men who enlisted were:

Bernard G. Wandel, 18, Connellsville.

Edward M. Jankey, 18, Masontown.

George C. Brown, 19, Masontown.

William G. Talbot, 20, Masontown.

Albert L. Zanehus, 18, Masontown.

Tony Cavalcanti, 20, Edenboro.

Joseph C. Baer, 18, Masontown.

The last six of these men make up the basketball squad. Several others applied for admission to the ranks of the company, but were turned down when they were unable to pass the physical examination.

Captain R. S. Morton will not receive recruits regularly again until Monday night. Dr. McKee will make no more medical inspections until that time. There are few more openings in the company now. The number enrolled is 106. About 20 will likely be discharged under the order releasing men with dependents, and five or six may fail to pass the physical examination again. Following the release of these men, the company will be recruited to 100 members and no further.

Orders sent out from state headquarters at Harrisburg and national headquarters at Washington all indicate an early call for the guardsmen, and company commanders have been notified in get all field equipment in shape. This work has been practically completed at the local armory.

Next Monday night is regular drill night. At this time the order releasing men with dependents will be read and explained to the men, and married men will be furnished with blanks which they must fill out in applying for discharge. A special effort will be made to get those coming under the order out on Monday.

Talbot, on examination by Dr. McKee, was found to have false teeth. For this reason he was held over and it is feared that he will not get by, though he was not absolutely rejected.

Business Men Here Want Farmington Road Improvement.

The executive committee of the Business and Professional Men's Association met last night, and decided to endorse the Connellsville-to-Farmington good roads movement, and to go ahead with the formation of a Connellsville unit in the league which proposes to secure the necessary good highway. The business men of Connellsville want to open up that rich farming district and divert the trade which now goes to Mount Pleasant into Connellsville, by the improvement of the road from this place to Farmington.

A big membership for the local unit is desired, and it is hoped that 500 or more may identify themselves with the league. Petitions for the improvement of the road will be placed in the following stores: E. J. Enos, J. H. Doyle, Connellsville Drug Company, Langley's Drug store, C. R. NEW SILK MILL STARTS TODAY

Only Six Girls at Work On First Day But Many More Will Be Given Employment.

Following close upon the sending out of first shipments from Casparis, a second new Connelville mill, the plant of the Connelville Silk Company, began operations today. Only six girls started work winding the silk on spools but others will be started in as soon as they learn the work.

The girls are in charge of Mrs. Dougherty, an experienced silk mill worker, who will teach them how to run the silk winding machines. Superintendent Mothershead is taking his time about getting the wheels running, as he intends to get his force thoroughly acquainted with the work before attempting to get a large output.

The only machines running today are those on the third floor. After the silk is run through the winding machines, it is dropped to the second floor where it is spun. The girls who will work on the spinning machines will be put on soon, but not until the winders are familiar with their work.

The full capacity of the mill for workers goes into the hundreds, and too much labor cannot be secured. As soon as the present factory is running at capacity, night and day, it is likely that an addition will be built, provided labor is still plentiful.

Barrels of all kinds of spools, for winding the threads are stored in the warehouses, and the first shipment of silk arrived several days ago.

STOP CATARRH! OPEN NOSTRILS AND HEAD

Says Cream Applied in Nostrils Relieves Head-Colds at Once.

If your nostrils are clogged and your head is stuffed and you can't breathe freely because of a cold or catarrh, just get a small bottle of Ely's Cream Balm at any drug store. Apply a little of this fragrant, antiseptic cream into your nostrils and let it penetrate through every air passage of your head, soothing and healing the inflamed, swollen mucous membrane and you get instant relief.

WANT GOOD PLOWING

Turning Up Earth in Proper Way Necessary For Proper Yield.

The question of getting good, efficient plowing done is causing some concern to local home garden enthusiasts. "How any one could get a decent yield from ground which has been plowed as some of it is being plowed around here, is beyond me," one man said this morning. Amateur gardeners are evidently being imposed on by amateur plowmen.

The school authorities think it is queer that people should plant the lots which, "since time immemorial," have been used by the children as playgrounds, while those never used by the youngsters lie untouched by the plow.

BIBLE CLASSES PLAN FEDERATION

Scottdale Sunday School Men to Have An Organization of Their Own.

Special to The Courier.

SCOTSDALE, April 25.—Men's and young men's Bible classes of this district are to be organized into a federation, and for this purpose a meeting will be held in the Methodist Episcopal church on Sunday afternoon at 2 o'clock. The plan is to get on a stronger working basis, which will give the men and young men an opportunity of more aggressive work along Sunday school lines, instead of being only a part of the district organization of the Westmoreland County Sabbath School association as they now are.

In schools where there are both a men's class and a young men's organized class, the former will be represented by two delegates and the latter by one, who will form the organization. In schools where there is a men's class only they will have three delegates.

It is the desire to have all those possible interested in Sunday school work as well as the delegates present at the meeting on Sunday. Pastors and superintendents, other officers, and as many as can be of the Sunday school are all invited to attend.

Rev. J. L. Undergraph of Mount Pleasant, who is at the head of the Organized Adult Bible classes of the county organization, will be one of those to be present.

DETAILS OF THE REVISED WAGE SCALE OF MINERS

All Classes of Labor in the Competitive Districts Are Affected.

CONFERENCE PATRIOTIC

Adopt Resolutions Tending Services of Both Operators and Mine Workers
to the Council of National Defense.
All Danger of Strikes is Eliminated.

The agreement which provides an advance of 20 per cent. in the wages of miners in the central competitive bituminous coal field, including the lower Monongahela valley and the Pittsburgh district generally, applies to all classes of labor in and about the mines. In detail the revised scales provides as follows:

1.—That pick and machine mining be advanced 10 cents a ton in the states and districts comprising the central competitive field, and that the screen coal mining prices in the black coal field of Indiana, be advanced in proportion to the mine run prices herein agreed to.

2.—That all-day labor now receiving
$2.28 and $3.00 a day be advanced to
$3.30 a day.

3.—That monthly men and all other classes of labor employed in and about the mine be advanced 60 cents a day, except as follows:

"Rappers shall receive $1.50 a day, and all boys now receiving $1.67 a day or less shall be advanced to $1.50
a day.

No advance shall be paid on dead work or yardages.

The advances shall become effective
April 16, 1917, and continue until March 31, 1918.

Before the conference, which was held in New York, had adjourned, the parties to it placed themselves squarely on record to do their full part in the work of preparing for war by adopting the following resolution:

"Resolved, By the coal operators and mine workers represented in the present conference in the central competitive field, that we offer
to the Council of National Defense
our support and cooperation; that a committee be appointed consisting of five operators to be selected by the coal operators represented in this conference, and five mine workers to be selected by the United Mine Workers of America.

"This committee will be empowered to enlarge its membership or take such other action to extend its scope beyond the confines of the central competitive field as expediency and the exigencies may justify.

"The committee will offer its services to the Council of National Defense, and if such offer is accepted will endeavor to render such services to the nation, in maintaining the production of coal and utilizing the maximum cooperation of employers and employees represented in the coal mining industry, so as to meet the requirements and needs of the national government as set forth by the labor committee of the Council of National Defense."

The following were appointed on the committee: Operators, S. H. Robbin, Ohio; P. H. Pomeroy, Indiana; C.
M. Underhill, Illinois; J. D. A. Morrow, Pennsylvania; and J. C. Kolsen, Indiana. Miners, Frank Farrington,
Illinois; Ed Stewart, Indiana; John Moore, Ohio; Philip Murray, Pennsylvania; and William Green, Ohio.

Commenting upon the work of the conference John P. White, president of the United Mine Workers of America, said:

"Operators in the bituminous fields of Illinois, Indiana, Ohio and Western Pennsylvania have been quick to appreciate the necessity of wage advances to meet the difficulties faced by miners who were anxious to do their share and asked only for advance provisions in the wage schedules for the vital needs of themselves and their families. Substantial increases have been agreed upon and the miners will now go to work with redoubled energy, confident that the family larder will not go empty.

"This is in marked contrast to the turmoil and confusion that swept over the English coal industry and threatened to paralyze England's industrial activities soon after the great war began. American coal operators have accepted as valid our opposition to the payment of bonuses, always a source of controversy and discord, and have met our demands for a fair increase so that the miner will know definitely what his earnings are to be."

After Century of Research Doctors De- clare Phosphate Greatest of All Strength Builders.

ORDINARY HYPO-PHOSPHATE UNSURPASSED AS TREAT-MENT FOR WEAK, NERVOUS, "RUN DOWN" CONDITIONS.

In ever increasing quantities and it is an admitted fact that in the treatment of those ailments directly or indirectly due to depleted nervous vitality, such as neurasthenia, nervous weakness, premature old age, insomnia, lack of energy, fatigue, reduced vitality, thinness, etc., it is unequalled. It is therefore, a matter of more than ordinary interest to all such sufferers to learn that in its pure undiluted state this organic nerve building phosphorus is now obtainable from druggists everywhere in the form of 5-grain tablets of pure Bilio-Phosphate at a cost so low as to be within the reach of everyone. One of these tablets should be taken with each meal and the results in many instances are little short of marvellous. Dull eyes become bright, sleep is restored to the sleepless, the nervous regain their strength, thin people put on flesh and the whole system becomes charged with that strength, vitality and energy which makes life so truly worth while.

Note. Bilio-Phosphate mentioned above is one of the reliable preparations that should be universally prescribed by physicians. It is dispensed by Connelville Drug Co. and other first class druggists everywhere.

SUN HAS SET ON GREAT WAGNER

Game Loses One of Its Most Picturesque Figures.

WAS OLDEST BALL PLAYER

Through Career of Twenty Years Wagner Achieved Batting Average of .324. Played in Most Games and Not Once Was Removed From Field by Umpire.

The sun has set on the baseball career of Hans Wagner. For the first time in twenty years the Pirates opened their baseball season without him, and his friends are saying that he has decided to retire from the game forever.

The veteran, who is at his home in Carnegie, Pa., refuses to make a statement. His salary was cut by Barney Dreyfus, the Pittsburgh president, when the contracts were sent out a few months ago, and the great shortstop refused to sign.

For some years Honus had been seriously thinking of retiring from the game, and rather than submit to a cut in salary after serving the Pirates through the best years of a wonderful career he decided definitely and determinedly to discard his uniform.

By his action—and it is thought in Pittsburgh that he will adhere to his decision—the game loses one of its most picturesque figures. Forty-three he was Feb. 24 last, the oldest player in the big league.

Dispatches regularly were sent out from Pittsburgh to the effect that Dreyfus had signed a recruit who would fill Wagner's shoes. Those dispatches were sent out for years, but with the passing of time it became more and more evident that the shoes of Hans Wagner were peculiarly large, and so Hans Wagner continued to play shortstop for the Pirates.

The old boy is slowing up, the fans in the stands would say, but the old boy stuck and continued to outplay many of his rival shortstops and all those who aspired to his position with the Pirates. But now it appears that the venerable Dutchman is through forever.

Through a career of twenty years Wagner achieved a batting average of .324. He has played in more games than any player in the history of big league baseball, and not once was he removed from a game by an umpire.

He was married a few months ago to Miss Jessie-Helen Smith of Cranston, Pa. Mrs. Wagner is twenty-six, but she was six years younger when it was first rumored that the pair were to be married. The ceremony was finally performed last December, and all comparisons between Wagner's speed as a base runner in his early days and as a slower crawler.

Jones to Coach Lebanon Nine. J. Edgar Cullin, in charge of athletics at the American Iron and Steel works of the Bethlehem Steel company, announced the selection of Tom Jones, former star first baseman for the Detroit Tigers, to coach the Lebanon team in the Lebanon Steel company baseball league race, representing the six Bethlehem plants in a ten game schedule.

COLLEGE STRENGTH RECORD IS BROKEN

A NEW national record in college strength tests was recently established in Corvallis, Ore., when Harry J. Cole, a sophomore, ran up a total of 2,158.8 points. The old record of 2,100 points was held by Mike Dorizas, champion heavyweight wrestler of the University of Pennsylvania.

Cole holds the collegiate Pacific coast record in the discus and in 1915 established a mark of 1,079 points in the strength test, a national record, subsequently broken by the Pennsylvania strong man, Cole weighs 197 pounds, is six feet tall and is twenty-five years old.

The 2,158.8 points made by Cole were made as follows:
Strength of lungs, 370; back, 400; legs, 670; right forearm, 103; left forearm, 98; chest and up, 407.8.

BILLY SUNDAY SAYS KIND WORD FOR BOXING

Sport, Properly Regulated, All Right; Can Handle His Dukes.

The Rev. Billy Sunday, the evangelist, is a boxing as well as a baseball enthusiast. Talking on the ring game recently, he said:

"Nothing wrong with it. Boxing properly regulated is not harmful and does a certain amount of good. Certainly won't corrupt any one's morals. There can't be any harm as long as they don't slug with the bare knuckles as in the old days," added Mr. Sunday.

"Boxing makes a fellow courageous, makes him self dependent. The boy or man who can box isn't afraid. He knows he can protect himself, and you never find that sort of fellow seeking trouble. Every boy should be taught to box. Bully exercise. I want my boy to be able to box and protect himself. You never heard of a good boxer going around with a gun in his pocket, did you? No, you bet you didn't."

"I believe in boxing and all manly sports. Just as I believe in universal military training. Good things for the nation at large. Makes boys and men strong of body and mind. That's what we want—strong men, not weak old fossils. Athletics keep you in good health. That's the main thing."

"And," concluded Mr. Sunday, with a wink, "I don't mind telling you that I can handle my own dukes pretty well. In my younger days I was somewhat of a boxer myself, and I haven't forgotten how."

At the Theatres.

"Gow! You're my sister! Killed, you and you've come to haunt me!"—A scene from "The Seven Deadly Sins" produced by M. C. Lippitt.

THE PARAMOUNT.
"ENVY"—The first of "The Seven Deadly Sins" is an interesting attraction today. In "Envy" Ann Murdock, supported by Shirley Mason, George LeGuerre, and other prominent screen stars, is featured. Eve Leslie is a poor country girl, who wishes she could have fine clothes, money and wealthy friends. The person she envies most is Betty Howard, a famous actress. Eve does not know that Betty's life has been full of sorrow, that for years she has been seeking a certain man and has found him, only to learn that he is a desperate criminal, who, misunderstanding her kindness attempts to blackmail her. Her hard work, too, has affected her health and her physician has ordered her to give up her work and take a much needed rest. Betty Howard, the famous actress, longs for such a life as Eve Leslie is leading. One day Betty is motoring with Stanton Skinner, an unscrupulous man, who wants her to marry him. Betty collapses and is taken to Eve's home. They become friends. Rocco Erwin, the man who has been seeking attempts to rob Skinner, is caught and released upon Betty's plea. She tells Skinner who Rocco is. Rocco himself does not know. Rocco later comes to Betty for money and is refused. He threatens her and leaves her for dead. Betty recovers and goes for Eve, who has gone aboard a yacht with Skinner. Each chapter of "The Seven Deadly Sins" is a story complete in itself. Tomorrow Kathryn Williams will be seen in "Out of the Wreck."

ORPHEUM THEATRE.
"SUNNY JANE"—A sunny story, featuring the sunny star, Jackie Saunders, in five reels, will be the attraction today. Jane, an imaginative country girl, is admired by James Thornton, a millionaire bachelor, who comes trying to buy her father's farm. Thornton offers to send the girl to school and pay all her expenses if the father will consent. Meanwhile Mrs. Vanderhoff pursues Thornton for her daughter, Elizabeth. Elizabeth, however, would rather have Ronald Jones and Thornton eventually helps them to elope. "Patria" No. 13, featuring Mrs. Vernon Castle will also be shown. Friday and Saturday America's little favorite, Mary Pickford, appears in the six reel Artcraft production, "A Poor Little Rich Girl." It is a story throbbing with dramatic reality and pathos of the parent ray. One could become pitifully sentimental in attempting to describe the lessons it contains and in attempting to enumerate the scenes that tug at the strings of the heart. Miss Pickford plays a little girl ten or eleven years old and there is never a false move or expression on her part to indicate advanced years.

Stirring Stories of the Sea

FIFTY FATHOMS DOWN

Strange Tale of a Submarine That Sank

Copyright by Harper & Brothers.

THE United States submarine torpedo boat Diver had come to the surface to blow out its torches and to recharge her storage battery and to restore her supply of compressed air to its working pressure of 2,000 pounds to the square inch.

Breen, temporary commander, raised his head and face up through the conning tower hatch, the blinged lid of which was held upright by a strong spring, and looked around at the night. The light prevented a view astern. The engine exhaust drowned the lesser sounds of the sea.

A curious rushing sound mingled with the puffing of the exhaust, a voice high above and stern sang out. "Something under the bow, sir!" and a huge bulk of blacker darkness struck the small semi-submerged craft a glancing blow from astern, heeled it a little and bore it under. Breen was washed downward by the rush of water, but held a grip on the conning tower ladder and found voice to call out:

"Stop the engine! Shut off the gas! Adjust that almost solid column of descending salt water he fought his way upward until, face above the hatch again, but looking now in the blackness of the deep, he saw the hand hold of the hatch lid and pulled it down. It closed with a force that would have shattered anything but armor steel, and Breen, half drowned, fell to the floor of the hulling room.

"Run down," he gasped. "Anything carried away?"

"Secure port, lieutenant," answered the chief electrician. "Nothing but the auxiliary motor. I've burned it out. I've had my hand on the switch when the jar came. But we're sinking, sir."

"We've taken in more than the reserve buoyancy surely," said Breen, looking at the depth indicator, which already marked forty feet. The hand moved as he looked to fifty, sixty, and more.

"Throw out every tank," he ordered. "The ballast and trim tanks were empty, but the bow is still sinking. Start the motor and connect up the pumps," said Breen.

"Can't," answered a machinist. "The motor's been shot through."

Breen looked and became thoughtful of face. The depressed engine compartment now held the water taken in, and the lower half of the armature was immersed. A sunken submarine with main motor short circuited by water and auxiliary motor burned out without means to pump, to move or to compress air for power is in a very bad plight.

"My God!" exclaimed Breen, glancing at the indicator. It marked 100!

"Out with the torpedoes!" Breen said bravely and cheerfully. "Disconnect the levers and unscrew the detonator."

Breen's last order carried a meaning to these men that was reflected back in their pale faces. "Any port in a storm," muttered one. "They're good life buoys on a pinch." They opened the torpedo tube, inserted the misset and closed the breech; then, opening the bow port, they turned on the compressed air, and a cough, a thud and an inrush of water testified that the torpedo was out. Breen studied the depth indicator.

"One hundred and ten," he called. "and still sinking! Out with them all, quick!"

At this moment there was a shock and a shudder, a screeching sound, then a bumping, scraping sound.

"Good!" exclaimed Breen. "We've reached the bottom, 120 feet down. Three hundred and fifty's the crushing point."

"But we're scraping along with the tide, sir," answered one of the men. "and we may go deeper."

"Then we'll find the torpedoes right above us," said Breen promptly. "Out with the other."

Out they went, one after the other, and after them the water in the tube. The boat lifted her bow to an angle of 25 degrees, but the scraping and bumping of the propeller guard on the bottom continued, and the depth indicator told them that she was now 130 feet below the surface and dragging downhill. Only Breen showed deviation.

"Draw lots," he said, bringing forth a box of matches from his pocket, "as to who goes first."

"You mean last, sir, don't you?" asked the engineer. "It makes no difference who goes first on the chance of swimming up over a hundred feet to find a torpedo at night, but some one must remain to fire out the last man."

"I remain," said Breen. "I am the commander. Who goes first, now?"

"I will," said one of the trimmen tank men. "But, lieutenant," he added, "we can swim up in two minutes. I should think I've held my breath three. But how'll we know which way to swim? It's night up there. We can't see."

"If your head and stomach don't tell you let your knife hang loose by the lanyard. I'll hang down. Swim parallel. Hold on. Keep your shoes on." The man was shouting from the hatch. "Take all weights out that you can. Put your hands on, all of you. It's a cold night up above. You'll need your coats riding a torpedo."

"Goodbye, sir. Goodbye, boys. All right."

He threw open the breech of the tube and crawled in. A man stood with his hand on the compressed air valve, another stood by the bow port lever; Breen himself was at the breech.

"Take a good breath when you hear the breech closed," he called in and was answered. Then he slumped to the swinging breech door, locked it and waved his hand to his men. They knew the drill. Water was admitted at once, the bow port was lifted, compressed air was turned on, there was the usual cough and thud and inrush of water, and a man under a pressure of four atmospheres was swimming somewhere through water black as night, guided only by his knife lanyard or the feel of his head and stomach.

Breen himself ejected the last man and stood up alone in a boat 140 feet beneath the surface of the sea, her bow lifted on an angle of 30 degrees from the horizontal, her main motor drowned and her auxiliary motor burned.

There was one chance in a million that he would be rescued. Two hours later when he looked at the depth indicator he saw a reading of 300. He was fifty fathoms below the surface.

Breen looked around, first at the air pressure indicators. All but two registered at zero. He had two tanks at 2,000 pounds pressure, and he could have blown out a few more torpedoes or men or tanks of water, but not that water was washing about him. He thought of the storage battery beneath the double-nine-yards large jars of sulphuric acid in danger from contact with that washing salt water, a bad combination, and inspected it. He found that the last jar was lifted six inches above the water level and, knowing that they were designed for an inclination of 45 degrees, was reassured.

He looked at the burned out motor overhead in the hulling room. It worked the air compressor and one of the large pumps, the other being connected to the main motor, under water and equally useless. He had a naval officer's knowledge of electricity and motors, acquired at Annapolis, and this told him that it would be hopeless, even for an expert mechanic, to attempt rewinding that small motor with the dried out wires of the motor.

He studied the main motor, nearly buried in water. When dry it worked with seventy horsepower. It would pump out against the pressure of the sea the water that kept the boat down. If clear of this water it would dry out in time. In what time? Breen had fifteen days' supply of food and water for a crew of eight, 120 days' supply for himself. His air supply was short, but suffocation is a long death.

The lower part of the armature and fully half the height of the field magnets were still immersed. He needed more weight forward or less aft, and as his eye roved about the maze of fixtures—pipes, valves and machinery—it rested upon the useless gasoline engine, a 2,000 pound weight. Removing his coat, he first made sure that the gas feed valve was screwed tight, then, delving for wrenches, spanners and hammers in the engineer's locker, attacked the engine.

Two weeks later he dragged forward with bleeding hands the connecting rod of the after cylinder and piled up a scrap heap of similar fragments beside the torpedo tube in the bow.

The engine was stripped to the supporting column that bore the weight of the motor and the pump, and the boat was not yet on an even keel, but the last lower coil of the field magnet was lifted from the water by the shifting of the weight, and when he had cleared the storage battery wires from all contact with water he rewarded himself with a few deep inhalations from his nearly exhausted compressed air supply and sat down to wait until the last light was dry.

He had kept the log and knew the right of time by this and the clock, and in another week he realized with sinking heart that the motor was not drying out. A little reflection told him why. In the sealed up hull the atmosphere was saturated with moisture, and no more evaporation could take place. A drying agent for gases? What was it? They it came to him out of the forgotten chemistry in his subconscious mind—"sulphuric acid."

He had plenty of it in under his feet. He had lead and copper piling in his scrap heap forward. He had two electric fans used for ventilation on the surface and a blower fixed in the air pipe, but available on a pinch, all four wired and ready, with a 3,000 ampere hour battery to drive them.

In three hours he had constructed from the back of his coat a cone shaped funnel that stretched around the wire guard of a fan wheel, and this he fitted on to the end of a length of lead pipe, the other end of which was all but immersed in the acid of a battery jar in the hold. With the fan buzzing and blowing into this funnel and a stream of air ruffling the surface of the acid he yet went on collecting, and with another fan, unscrewed from its shelf and twisted to a new location, he caught this dried air as it rose and drove it aft over the motor.

The air was again very bad. His head was aching, and he needed no clear recollection of the forgotten lecture to know that the dominant ferrous was the carbonic acid gas from his lungs. This boat was not equipped with the apparatus for purifying air that he had read of in plans, and all the chemistry that would come to him was the old, familiar classroom test for carbonic acid gas or carbon dioxide. This testing reagent was lime-water, but the chemical term for it was beyond him.

As he slept fitfully, with intervals of half waking thought, chemical terms, long forgotten and bearing no seeming relation to lime-water, ran jumblingly through his head—potassium chlorate, manganese dioxide, chloride of sodium, chlorhydric acid. These persisted through the jumble and remained when he awakened.

But what had they to do with lime-water? Nothing that he could remember. Chloride of sodium was common salt, he knew, and he had plenty of it dissolved in water—more than he wanted. Chlorhydric acid—hydrochloric acid—muriatic acid—an acid containing no oxygen, the one gas that he needed so badly, formed of hydrogen and chlorine—chlorine gas. Chlorine gas, he thought. Chlorine—also a constituent of the salt in his blake water. But what of it? It was oxygen that he wanted. Potassium chlorate—chlorate of potassium. This contained chlorine. Manganese dioxide contained oxygen. But what did it mean?

Why should these elements and compounds come to his mind? He had something of blind faith in the relevancy of thought, but he wanted to know only of lime-water, with which he could catch the carbon dioxide in the air and free the oxygen. This last thought was an advance, but he could go no further in this direction. His mind returned to chlorhydric acid, to hydrogen, to chlorine.

How were they made? They were all there—in this sea water. His waking thought of sulphuric acid as a drying agent meant something. Sulphuric acid, one of the most powerful electrolytic reagents, the most powerful electrolytic—electro—electrolysis—"Hydrogen!"

He bounded to his feet. He had it. Electrolysis of water yielded oxygen and hydrogen. But why had manganese dioxide and potassium chlorate so persisted in his mind? And lime-water—what had that to do with his problem, now solved by electrolysis?

Slowly the memory of school day lessons learned by rote filtered up from the past—the test tube manufacture of oxygen by the union of these chemicals in the presence of heat. And lime-water, with its ability for carbon dioxide? There was no lime on board, hence no lime-water. But there was water—too much. Where was the affinity? It was slower in coming, but it came—the old lesson learned by rote and forgotten. "Carbon dioxide is soluble in water, volume for volume." "Oxygen is but slightly soluble in water—about three parts in a hundred."

"I see how it is," he said, with the infantile smile that had come to his boy's face in this trouble. "It's the subliminal self that remembers everything, and when you've guessed all around the subject it pops out and hits you when you've touched it."

He found some spare insulated wire among the stores and dugged two lengths from the poles of the battery, scraping the ends and immersing them in the salt water. A few bubbles arose, then ceased.

"Penny how things come back when you need them," he said as he pulled up the wires. "I want platinum electrodes and solder and soldering fluid—chloride of zinc—zinc ore by hydrochloric acid. Wonder if I'll have to make my acid?"

He did not. He found a soldering outfit in the locker, then rummaged his scrap heap forward for platinum speakers and, finding very little of the precious metal, ruthlessly smashed all but three of the electric bulbs that lighted his prison, robbing them of the platinum wires that led the current into the circuit.

Chemistry, for he was but a theoretical mechanic, he soldered the ends of the platinum wires and fragments to the copper ends of his terminals, about half to each, packing brushlike electrodes of the largest possible surface exposure. Then he immersed them and was gratified at the result. Bubbles arose in generous quantity.

"Now which is which?" he said as he tested over them. "Let's think. Water—hydrogen and oxygen—H₂O—two parts of hydrogen to one of oxygen. But the bubbles seem about the same size."

He stopped and inhaled deeply of the air over one column of bubbling bubbles. A little of this brought on a curious feeling of faintness, with a desire to draw a longer breath.

LESS EASTERN COAL USED IN MAKING BY-PRODUCT COKE

Western Producers Increase the Proportion of Illinois Coal.

CONNELLSVILLE COKE

Remains the Standard by Which the Reform Process Product Is Measured: Acuteness of Coal Situation Cause of Change in Coal Practice.

An important change in practice by the By-Product Coke Corporation of Chicago promises to make western by-product coke manufacturers less dependent on eastern coal for coking purposes, says the Chicago correspondent of the Daily Iron Trade.

When the coal situation began to be acute last fall, the By-Product Corporation began experiments with Illinois coal. On analysis it appeared that coal from Franklin county promised best results; experiments were made with several grades from the field. By the beginning of the present year it was found that mixtures ranging from 40 per cent of Franklin coal and 60 per cent of eastern coal to a full charge of Illinois coal could be used and make an excellent coke.

At present the formula at the South Chicago plant is 40 per cent Illinois coal, 30 per cent high volatile eastern coal, and 30 per cent Pocahontas. The result is coke with an analysis well within the Conneltsville standard, giving 10 per cent ash and 0.70 to 0.80 sulphur. The time of coking is the same as with former practice. About 1,600 tons daily of Illinois coal are being used in producing the 4,000 tons turned out daily by this plant.

As a result of this successful experiment, other by-product coke makers are using Illinois coal and almost all types of by-product ovens are involved in the new practice. The Illinois Steel company is using it at Gary and Joliet, and the United States Steel Corporation has bought a mine in Franklin county. The Western United Gas & Electric company of Joliet, and the Milwaukee Coke & Gas company at Milwaukee are also using part Illinois coal.

Some experimenting has been done at Indianapolis. Illinois coal doubtless will be used there. These successful experiments involve Solvay, Koppers, Whilpit, and Otto-Hoffmann ovens, the actual results being practically uniform.

At the time of buying the first supply for experimental purposes, an option was taken on about 8,000 acres of coal land, including the two mines of the Producers' Coal company in Franklin county. When success was attained this option was closed, and the mines are now owned by the By-Product Coke Corporation and operated under the charter of the Producers' Coal company. The daily production is now about 3,500 tons.

YOU CAN HELP

At Home as Well as on the Fighting Line.

Our armies and the armies of our allies must be fed and clothed. Raise a flag, but don't forget to raise vegetables, too. Anything that contributes to the national food supply is a help. Every dollar saved helps.

Every savings account—every checking account opened at a bank helps. Helps to mobilize the monetary resources of the nation. In this connection, the First National of Connellsville invites both your checking and savings account.—Adv.

TOOK MATTERS IN HAND AND GOOD RESULTS CAME

Nerv-Worth Not Long in Making Over 11th Street, West Side Man.

This recently-given home endorsement will bear re-reading. Connellsville Drug Co.—Was sick two weeks with stomach and bowel trouble. Pains in pit of stomach, usually about supper time and continuing for about three hours. My appetite was poor and sleep was not restful nor did I get the required amount of sleep. Did not feel like work. No vitality, no ambition. Would be tied in the morning. Only would get four or five hours sleep. Consented. I have had some Nerv-Worth treatment (only three days all told). My troubles are all gone and I feel like a different man. No pains. Bowel regular. Sleep like a baby. Rested in morning. Appetite good. I am satisfied. Nerv-Worth is a good medicine and I cheerfully recommend it.

Joseph Mills, 137 Eleventh street West Side. Your dollar back at the Connellsville Drug Co.'s store if Nerv-Worth does not benefit you. The Broadway Drug Co. sells Nerv-Worth at Scottsdale, W. I. Lewis at Browns-ville.—Adv.
